People seek information that they already believe

There are predictable perceptions of President Biden's performance.

Voters seek confirmation of their existing beliefs. Consider these network sources, what they say of him, and which groups tune them in.

Fox News: Biden is terrible, inflation is rampant and non-whites are taking control.

MSNBC: Biden is terrific, consumer spending way up and unemployment way down.

Americans watch the network which conforms to their bias. And their network proves them right.
