Marines aren't only branch to offer 'intensive' officer training

Excuse me? The military news in the Feb. 12 edition said, "The Marine Corps is the only branch of the military that requires its officers to go through an intensive officer training camp."

Yes, Marines are special in many ways, and they do have the best song. But it is news to me, and to my Army buddies, that our training was less than "intensive."

Trust me on this one folks, Ft. Hood is not a Marriott.
