Like Penn State football players program, some of our readers think sanctions against the university fine will be a cure, or that a cut in scholarships will matter, is absurd. This magnificent university will correct its mistakes because it has the internal pride to do so.

It is the students who will pay the price for the transgressions of their elders. The shame should go only to the guilty administrators. It is the trustees who are to blame. The NCAA should have done nothing. Yes, nothing. Penn State will fix itself.
