

Seeking thoughts on what is happening to boys

Bob Strange's Aug. 14 response to my "What is happening to boys" guest column was a well-considered column. Strange states that the problem is men are no longer guiding boys through the transition to manhood.

I have heard other theories from women's liberation to male abdication to testosterone reduction and others. My column intentionally did not advocate a conclusion or reason. It would be interesting to hear from other readers on the cause — and the cure.

Something needs to be done to get our boys involved in life beyond computers and sports. Any thoughts?
