Some adapt better than others

A recent column said that it is important for a wife to adapt to her husband. If that is true, what about our great 53-year marriage?

I was Army; she went Navy.

She was in Desert Storm; I was back here doing household duties

I took a graduate degree, but only after she earned hers first.

I am from New Jersey; she is from Texas. Guess how that was resolved.

You get the point.
