LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Slow news days lead to non-newsworthy coverage

The media are filled with non-news-worthy events.

Witness the attention to the recent first "coming out" of a homosexual player in a major sport.

Before that we had blurbs repeatedly reviewing the story of the first black Major League Baseball player. Then there was the hoop de doo over the first female admitted to Augusta National Country Club.

One wonders if all such ground-breaking events will receive equal time. What coverage will be given to the first:

- Libertarian who refuses Social Security?
- Arkansan who marries outside his immediate family?
- Aggie who uses utensils?
